MAKING PICKLES.

GOOD READING FOR HOUSEWIVES

Receipts for Cucumber Mangoes, Spiced Canta loupe, East India Pickle, Tomato Catsup, Brandy Peaches, Pepper Sauce, Tomato Soy, and Mangues.

The season of the year is approaching when the housewife begins to think of replenishing her stock of pickles. No doubt these can be very often purchased at le-s cost than she can make them, but they are never as good as those that are homenade, nor near so wholesome, and, besides, every sood houskeeper is ambitious to show what she and to in this line. Vegetables intended for pick-ng should be gathered while they are young and tender, and care must be taken to use only the best cider vinegar. Spices and vinegar boiled together must be done in an earthen pan or in a kettle lined with porcelain, and it is better to use a wooden spoon for attring them.

CUCUSHER MANGOES.

Select the largest sized wickling computers and Select the largest-sized pickling cucumbers and put them into a strong brins for two weeks; then take them out, drain well, and heat the brine to a boiling point. Pour it over the pickles immediately, and let them stand until the next day. Repeat this process mine times, and after they are cold the last time throw them into pump water for eight hours. Drain them well, and dry each one upon a coarse towel, then with a sharp knife make a slit in the side and remove the seeds. Make each one perfectly dry, and fill with the following mixture: To three dozen cucumbers take six large onlens, chop them very fine, and add half an ounce clery seed, one ounce turmeric, one pound white mustard seed, one ounce chopped mace, half an ounce powdered numeg, half a pound grated horse radish, and a quarter of a pound of ground mustard. Mix all into a paste with a cup of said oil. Tie a string around each pickle in order to keep the filling in, and pack them down into a stone jar. Take as much vinegar as will be necessary to cover them, and let it boil up once with a handful of choves, a head of garlic, and a tablespoonful of sugar. Pour this ever the pickles while it is hot, and the the jar closely. Do not open for five or six weeks and they will be ready for use.

they will be ready for use.

PRACH MANOOES.

Take one peck of large Morris white peaches or large, firm yellow freestone peaches and covertiem with brine for twenty-four hours. Take them out and remove the seed by making a six in the side and partially opening the peach, then throw them back into the brine and let them remain another twenty-four hours. Drain them, wipe dry lasted and outside, and fill them with the following mixture: one pint of chopped outons, a tenspoonful of chopped green gluger, half an ounce of celery seed, one ounce of white mustard seed, half an onnee of tomeric, and one ounce of black mustard seed. The a string around each peach, peach them in a stone jar, and cover them with cold vinegar, adding a tablespoonful of oil, a head of garlie, and a tablespoonful of sugar. Ready for use in three weeks.

MANGOES,

Small green cautelones are used for these pickles, and they must be laid in a strong brine for eight days, then pare them, remove the seeds, pour boiling water over them, and let them stand over night, adding to the water a tablespoonful of turneric. Next day drain them and wipe dry inside and outside with a coarse towel, and fill with the following mixture: To three dozen mangoes take one pound of chopped onloss, one pound and a half of mustard seed, one ounce of turneric, half an ounce of celery seed, one ounce of chopped mace, a handful of peppercorns, and half a pound of grated horse radish. Mix all into a puste with salad oil. The a string around each mangoe and cover them with boiling vinegar, to which has been added a handful of alispice and a table-spoenful of singar. The closely and they will be ready for use in five weeks.

STICED CANTALOUPE.

SPICED CANTALOUPS.

Use the large ripe melons for this purpose, but be careful to have them perfectly firm. Pare the slices and weigh them; to every eleven pounds of fruit take four pounds of brown sugar and three pints of the best cider vinegar. Poar the vinegar over the fruit and let it stand twenty-four hours. Next morning add the sugar, one ounce of whole cloves, one ounce of stick cinnamon, four blades of mace, and a handful of whole altspice. Boil all together very slowly until the melou is cooked. Put the fruit into a stone jar and pour the boiling sycup over it, and the next morning pour it off and let it boil up again and add it to the fruit. Ready for use in three weeks.

Eager for the Fray in Virginia. The new or Liberal party was never in better condition and trim, or more eager for the fray. Young Wise is an able and fearless speaker and rator, with a clear record in war and in peace and popular among all classes of our people. He s the son of Governor Henry A. Wise, who de-cested the famous "Know-Nothing" party in the fested the famous "Know-Nothing" parry in the memorable State campaign in 1856, and will carry much of his father's magnetism and dash into the present fight. The organization of his parry is thorough and complete as none but Mahone can make it, and its enthusiasm never greater. They hold conventions next month in every Congressional district to nominate candidates who will carry the war into Africa and Africa into the war with a vim, and threaten nearly every district in the State. But even a popular majority for Wise as Congressman at large insures the electoral vote of Virginia for the Republican ticket in 1854, even if the tariff question does not loom up as an important factor in the contest; for the fart can no longer be conceased that Virginia is rapidly growing in favor of a tariff for protection as well as for revenue, and in two or three of our districts it will be made the leading issue in November.—

GENEVA AWARD!

Special and personal attention given to the preparation, proof, and trial of cases in the Court of Alabama Claims, in Washington, D. C.

An extended experience in the former court, and unusual facilities for managing these cames, enables me to render special scryices to claimants. Time for docketing cases explies January 14, 1883. All cases not entered on or before that date will be thereafter totally barred and inatmissible.

The Court has jurisdiction of claims for vessels and cargees destroyed by any confederate cruisers, the wages of officers and men, their personal uffects, and for War Premiums paid from April, 1801, to November, 1853. Interest is allowed from the time of the loss or payment of premiums until March 81, 1877, at oss or payment of premiums until March 31, 1877, at 4 per cent. per annum.
